

Investigation of road users safety culture and travel habits

Scientific Responsible
Professor George Yannis

---

The aim of the project is to investigate safety culture and driving habits of road users such as alcohol use while driving, the behavior of young drivers, older drivers and pedestrians, and the use of vehicle sharing services. In addition, it will be considered which of these issues should be taken into account in driver training and driving licensing procedures, as well as in future research into the development of road safety models.
